

Timothy Hutchinson

Tim Hutchinson grew up in rural New South Wales and currently lives in Yass. He is a graduate of the National Art School. His creative focus is derived from landscape painting. In his work he seeks to capture the immediacy and freshness of working in situ in a variety of Australian contexts: from city landscapes to outback rural environments. He is renowned for his work en plein air. His work spans recent residencies and painting journeys nationally and internationally as well as solo and group exhibitions. He has been a Finalist in the Wynne Prize and has received other awards for his work.
